

Bottin

After graduating in Psychology of Music, he worked as consultant to the sound and music department of Fabbrica: the Benetton research center and artist residence program established by Oliviero Toscani. Bottin quickly moved to the forefront of the contemporary electronic disco scene with seminal releases on Johnny Jewel's Italians Do It Better label (USA) and on Bearfunk (UK) and Eskimo Recordings (BE). His current discography includes 10 albums, about 50 singles/EPs, dozens of official remixes, as well as songs with Visage, Lucio Dalla and successful side projects such as the italo disco/new wave band Cristalli Liquidi and the acid-disco alias Magou on Toy Tonics records. He often collaborates with the Slow Motion collective in Berlin and the legendary Clone label/distributor in Rotterdam.

Bottin has toured internationally in more than 30 countries, from Americas to Australia, from Europe to Asia, from obscure underground parties, art and cultural events to large club nights in Ibiza.

In 2019, he contributed to the creation of Biennale di Venezia's new centre for electronic music, that he then coordinated in the following years. Previously, Bottin curated several music events for the Biennale's Dance and Music festivals and carried out sound design at the Biennale of Contemporary Art. His music is featured in Ana Lily Amirpour's film Mona Lisa and The Blood Moon, presented at the 78° Venice Film Festival and given the honorable mention at Soundtrack Stars Award.

Bottin is currently completing a PhD in musicology at the State University of Milan and he is a visiting scholar at Humbolt-Universität in Berlin, researching histories and practices of groove and machinic rhythm aesthetics in popular and electronic dance music.

Bottin's dj set is an eclectic journey into space disco, refined electro house, and rediscovered obscurities from the past, re-edited and reworked for today. A reckless blend of retro-futuristic sounds and contemporary electronica that can easily set the dancefloor on fire and has convinced audiences of clubbers and connoisseurs around the world.

«Italians don't necessarily do it better, but Bottin makes a pretty good case» (Pitchfork, USA)
